

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An ice cube tray includes a base and a plurality of containers. Both are connected together in an injection method. The base is made of inflexible material with hollow cavities while the containers are made of flexible material.

- 5 Each container is corresponding in shape to each cavity of the base. The containers can be made to various colors. The inflexible base is easy to handle while the flexible containers facilitate dislodging of ice cubes from the base.